

Magical Moving Ice of March
An infinite horizon of moving ice
at Fogo Island Inn

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Fogo Island, Newfoundland, 10 February 2015:

Fogo Island, Newfoundland has seven seasons and March's Ice Season is the most epic of them all. It is a mesmerizing time of Arctic sea ice in perpetual motion. The pack ice arrives with the Labrador Current, bringing seals and forming aqua-tinged rifters and ridges along the shores. It engorges the island's bays and harbours—undulating, grinding and sparking at the call of the wind and tides. Fogo Island Inn is offering three categories of all-inclusive Magical Moving Ice of March packages to experience the wonders of Ice Season beginning March 1 through to March 31, 2015.

The proximity to nature in an average Fogo Island day is constant and thrilling. And never more thrilling than March. In one of the only places in the world where people live in moving ice, visitors can catch caribou herds dashing over frozen barrens and bogs; explore spectacular wintry landscapes on a snowmobile; and feel the thrills of reeling in their catch from the icy depths on an ice fishing excursion.

And Fogo Island is as intimate as it is immense. At day's end, cozy up for storytelling, music and drinks around the fire in the intimate setting of Fogo Island Inn—a 29-suite property on the edge of the Earth. The Inn has won multiple international awards and accolades for hospitality, design and sustainability, since opening in 2013.

All of Fogo Island Inn's Magical Moving Ice of March full-board packages include Gander helicopter transfers to and from Fogo Island (weather permitting). The helicopter journey allows breath-taking views of the pack ice from the sky as you swoop by en route to the Inn.
